

15 Short Christmas Stories For Kids

Presented by

KCCNJ.com

KCCNJ.com

Table of Contents

1. The Magic of Christmas Eve	3
2. The Magic of Christmas Cookies.....	4
3. The Christmas Elf's Secret	5
4. The Christmas Wish.....	7
5. The Magical Christmas Tree.....	8
6. The Reindeer's Christmas Adventure.....	10
7. The Christmas Cookie Miracle	11
8. The Christmas Puppy Surprise.....	12
9. The Christmas Star.....	13
10. The Forgotten Toy.....	15
11. The Christmas Elf's Secret Helper.....	16
12. The Magic Snow Globe.....	17
13. The Christmas Wish Tree	18
14. The Reindeer's Christmas Adventure	19
15. The Christmas Cookie Mix-Up.....	21

1. The Magic of Christmas Eve

It was Christmas Eve, and little Sammy couldn't sleep. He tossed and turned in his bed, thinking about all the presents that might be waiting for him in the morning. As he stared out his window at the twinkling stars, he noticed something strange in the sky.

A bright red light was moving across the night, followed by eight smaller lights. Sammy's eyes widened as he realized what he was seeing. It was Santa's sleigh!

Excited, Sammy crept downstairs, careful not to wake his parents. He tiptoed into the living room, where the Christmas tree stood tall and proud. Just as he reached the tree, he heard a soft thump on the roof.

Sammy held his breath as he heard footsteps above. Then, in a puff of sparkly snow, Santa appeared right next to the fireplace! The jolly old man in the red suit smiled at Sammy.

"Ho ho ho! Merry Christmas, Sammy!" Santa said in a warm, friendly voice. "Santa! You're real!" Sammy whispered in awe.

Santa chuckled and put a finger to his lips. "Of course I am! But remember, it's our little secret. Now, off to bed with you. Christmas morning will be here before you know it!"

With a wink and another puff of magic snow, Santa disappeared up the chimney. Sammy rushed back to bed, his heart full of joy and wonder.

When he woke up the next morning, Sammy found presents under the tree and cookie crumbs on the plate he'd left out. He smiled, knowing that the magic of Christmas was real, and that believing in it made the holiday even more special.

2. The Magic of Christmas Cookies

It was Christmas Eve, and little Lily was excited to help her grandmother bake cookies for Santa. As they mixed the dough, Grandma told Lily a secret: "These aren't just any cookies, dear. They're magic Christmas cookies!"

Lily's eyes widened with wonder. "Really, Grandma? How are they magic?"

Grandma winked and said, "Well, when you make them with love and sprinkle them with belief, amazing things can happen."

They shaped the dough into stars and trees, then decorated them with colorful frosting and sprinkles. As they worked, Lily hummed Christmas carols and thought about how much she believed in the magic of Christmas.

That night, Lily carefully placed the cookies and a glass of milk on a plate for Santa. She went to bed, dreaming of reindeer and twinkling lights.

In the morning, Lily raced downstairs. To her amazement, she found presents under the tree, and the cookie plate was empty except for a note. It read:

"Dear Lily,

Your magic cookies were the best I've ever tasted! They gave my reindeer and me extra energy to deliver presents all around the world. Thank you for believing. Merry Christmas!

Love, Santa"

Lily hugged the note, her heart full of joy. She realized that the real magic of Christmas wasn't just in the cookies, but in the love and belief she shared with her family.

From that day on, Lily and her grandmother made their special magic Christmas cookies every year, spreading happiness and wonder to everyone who tasted them.

3. The Christmas Elf's Secret

Tommy was a curious 9-year-old boy who loved Christmas more than any other holiday. This year, he was determined to stay awake and see Santa Claus. On Christmas Eve, he pretended to go to sleep but kept his eyes wide open.

As the clock struck midnight, Tommy heard a soft tinkling sound coming from the living room. He tiptoed out of bed and peeked around the corner. To his surprise, he saw a tiny elf with pointy ears and a green hat decorating the Christmas tree!

The elf turned around and saw Tommy. "Oh! Hello there!" he said with a friendly smile. "I'm Jingle, Santa's helper. I'm here to make sure everything is perfect for his visit."

Tommy's eyes grew wide with wonder. "Wow! Can I help?" he asked excitedly.

Jingle nodded and handed Tommy a shiny ornament. Together, they finished decorating the tree, hung stockings, and arranged presents.

Just as they finished, they heard the sound of sleigh bells outside. "Quick!" Jingle whispered. "Santa's coming! You need to be in bed!"

Tommy rushed back to his room, his heart pounding with excitement. As he drifted off to sleep, he heard a deep, jolly laugh and knew that Santa had arrived.

The next morning, Tommy found a special note under the tree: "Thank you for your help, Tommy! Merry Christmas! - Santa and Jingle"

Tommy smiled, knowing he had been part of a magical Christmas secret.

4. The Christmas Wish

Emma was a kind-hearted 9-year-old girl who loved the holiday season. As Christmas approached, she noticed her neighbor, Mr. Johnson, seemed sad and lonely. He was an elderly man who lived by himself, and Emma had never seen anyone visit him.

One snowy afternoon, Emma decided to make a special Christmas card for Mr. Johnson. She spent hours drawing a beautiful Christmas tree and writing a cheerful message inside. When she finished, she walked next door and slipped the card under Mr. Johnson's door.

The next day, Emma was surprised to find a small package on her doorstep. Inside was a note from Mr. Johnson thanking her for the card. He explained that he had been feeling lonely, but her kindness had brightened his day.

Excited by this, Emma had an idea. She asked her parents if they could invite Mr. Johnson for Christmas dinner. They agreed, and Emma ran to deliver the invitation.

On Christmas Day, Mr. Johnson joined Emma's family. His eyes twinkled as they sang carols, shared stories, and enjoyed a delicious meal together. Emma's heart felt warm seeing the smile on Mr. Johnson's face.

As he was leaving, Mr. Johnson hugged Emma and said, "Thank you for giving me the best Christmas gift of all - friendship."

Emma realized that sometimes, the greatest joy comes from making others happy. From that day on, Mr. Johnson became like a grandfather to her, and their friendship lasted for many Christmases to come.

5. The Magical Christmas Tree

In a small town covered in snow, lived a little girl named Lucy. She was 8 years old and loved Christmas more than anything. This year, Lucy wanted to find the perfect Christmas tree for her family.

One chilly afternoon, Lucy and her dad went to the Christmas tree farm. As they walked among the tall, green trees, Lucy spotted a small, crooked tree in the corner. It looked sad and lonely.

"Can we get this one, Dad?" Lucy asked, pointing to the little tree.

Her dad looked surprised but smiled and said, "If that's the one you want, sweetheart."

They brought the tree home and started decorating it. Lucy hung colorful ornaments and twinkling lights on its branches. She even put a shiny star on top.

That night, as Lucy slept, something magical happened. The little tree began to glow with a soft, warm light. It stretched its branches and stood up straight and tall.

In the morning, Lucy rushed downstairs and gasped. The once-small tree now touched the ceiling! It was covered in sparkling icicles and had presents underneath.

Lucy's parents were amazed. "How did this happen?" they wondered.

Lucy just smiled. She knew that her love and kindness had made the little tree grow. From that day on, their house was filled with the magic of Christmas, all because Lucy had chosen the tree that needed love the most.

6. The Reindeer's Christmas Adventure

On the night before Christmas, Rudolph the red-nosed reindeer was feeling nervous. It was his first year leading Santa's sleigh, and he wanted everything to be perfect.

As Santa and the reindeer took off from the North Pole, Rudolph's nose glowed brightly, lighting the way through the dark, snowy sky. They visited house after house, leaving presents for all the good boys and girls.

Suddenly, a thick fog rolled in. Even Rudolph's shiny nose couldn't cut through it! "Oh no!" cried Santa. "How will we deliver the rest of the presents?"

Rudolph had an idea. He remembered his friend Ollie the owl, who had excellent night vision. "Let's ask Ollie for help!" he suggested.

They found Ollie perched in a nearby tree. When Rudolph explained the problem, Ollie hooted happily, "I'd love to help!"

Ollie flew ahead of the sleigh, guiding them through the fog. With Ollie's sharp eyes and Rudolph's glowing nose, they made a great team. Together, they helped Santa deliver presents to every child on his list.

As they returned to the North Pole, Santa patted Rudolph's head. "Well done, Rudolph! Your quick thinking saved Christmas!"

Rudolph beamed with pride. He had learned that sometimes, asking for help can lead to the best adventures. From that day on, Ollie joined the reindeer team every Christmas Eve, and they all lived happily ever after.

7. The Christmas Cookie Miracle

Timmy was a 9-year-old boy who loved Christmas, especially the delicious cookies his grandma always baked. This year, however, Grandma was sick and couldn't make her famous treats.

Determined to keep the tradition alive, Timmy decided to bake the cookies himself. He found Grandma's old recipe book and got to work in the kitchen.

Mixing the ingredients was harder than he thought. Flour puffed into the air, and eggshells crunched under his feet. The first batch came out of the oven looking more like burnt frisbees than cookies.

Timmy felt discouraged, but he didn't give up. He tried again and again, each time getting a little better. On his fourth try, the cookies finally looked golden and smelled wonderful.

Excited, Timmy packed a box of cookies and took them to Grandma's house. When she tasted them, her eyes lit up with joy.

"These taste just like mine!" she exclaimed, giving Timmy a big hug.

Timmy beamed with pride. He had not only kept the family tradition going but had also made his grandma happy. As they shared the cookies and sipped hot cocoa, Timmy realized that the true magic of Christmas wasn't in perfect cookies, but in the love and effort put into making them.

From that day on, Timmy and Grandma baked Christmas cookies together every year, creating sweet memories that lasted a lifetime.

8. The Christmas Puppy Surprise

It was Christmas Eve, and Lily, a 9-year-old girl with curly brown hair, had only one wish. She wanted a puppy more than anything in the world. Lily had asked Santa for a puppy in her letter, and she hoped with all her heart that he would bring one.

As she went to bed that night, Lily could hardly sleep. She tossed and turned, dreaming of fluffy puppies and wagging tails.

Early on Christmas morning, Lily woke up to a strange sound. It wasn't the usual jingle of bells or her parents' footsteps. It sounded like... a bark?

Lily jumped out of bed and raced downstairs. Under the twinkling Christmas tree was a big red box with holes in it.

The box moved slightly, and another tiny bark came from inside.

With shaking hands, Lily opened the box. Inside was the cutest golden retriever puppy she had ever seen! It had a red bow around its neck and looked up at Lily with big, loving eyes.

"Oh my goodness!" Lily cried, scooping up the puppy in her arms. It licked her face, making her giggle with joy.

Her parents came into the room, smiling at Lily's happiness. "Merry Christmas, sweetheart," they said. "What will you name your new friend?"

Lily thought for a moment, then said, "I'll call him Noel, because he's my special Christmas gift!"

From that day on, Lily and Noel were the best of friends, and every Christmas, Lily remembered the magical morning when her greatest wish came true.

9. The Christmas Star

Max was a curious 8-year-old boy who loved looking at the stars. Every night, he would gaze out his window, wondering about the twinkling lights in the sky.

As Christmas approached, Max noticed a new star that seemed to shine brighter than all the others. It sparkled with a magical glow that made Max feel warm inside.

On Christmas Eve, Max's mom tucked him into bed. "Remember, Santa only comes when you're asleep," she said with a wink.

But Max couldn't sleep. He kept thinking about the special star. Suddenly, he heard a soft whoosh outside his window. Max peeked out and gasped. There, floating right outside, was a tiny elf in a glittering sleigh!

"Hello, Max!" the elf said cheerfully. "I'm Twinkle, the Star Keeper. Would you like to help me guide Santa's sleigh tonight?"

Max nodded excitedly. Twinkle sprinkled some sparkly dust over Max, and soon they were flying through the night sky.

Together, they made the Christmas star shine extra bright, helping Santa find his way to every child's home. Max felt like he was in a wonderful dream.

When Max woke up on Christmas morning, he found a note under the tree: "Thank you for your help, Max! Keep spreading Christmas cheer! - Santa and Twinkle"

Max smiled, knowing he had been part of a magical Christmas adventure. From that day on, whenever he looked at the stars, he remembered the night he helped guide Santa's sleigh.

10. The Forgotten Toy

In Santa's workshop at the North Pole, there was a small, wooden toy train named Choo-Choo. Unlike the shiny new toys, Choo-Choo was old and a bit worn. He worried that no child would want him for Christmas.

On Christmas Eve, as Santa loaded his sleigh, Choo-Choo accidentally fell into a sack of presents. Santa didn't notice and took off into the snowy night sky.

The sleigh landed on the roof of a cozy house. Santa slid down the chimney with his sack of toys. As he placed presents under the tree, Choo-Choo tumbled out onto the floor.

Just then, a little boy named Tommy crept downstairs for a glass of water. He spotted Choo-Choo and picked him up gently.

"Wow," Tommy whispered, his eyes shining. "What a cool old train! It looks just like Grandpa's!"

Santa smiled, realizing Choo-Choo had found the perfect home. He winked at Tommy and said, "Merry Christmas, little one. Take good care of that special train."

Tommy nodded happily and hugged Choo-Choo close. From that day on, Choo-Choo became Tommy's favorite toy, proving that sometimes the best gifts are the ones with the most love, not the most shine.

11. The Christmas Elf's Secret Helper

On a snowy Christmas Eve, a little girl named Sophie couldn't sleep. She was too excited about Santa's visit. As she lay in bed, she heard a soft tinkling sound coming from downstairs.

Curious, Sophie tiptoed down the stairs and peeked into the living room. To her surprise, she saw a small elf struggling to carry a big sack of presents!

"Oh, hello there!" the elf whispered when he saw Sophie. "I'm Jingle, Santa's helper. I'm running a bit behind schedule. Would you like to help me?"

Sophie nodded eagerly. Together, they arranged presents under the tree, filled stockings, and even left out cookies for Santa.

Just as they finished, they heard sleigh bells outside. "Quick!" Jingle said. "Santa's coming! You need to be in bed!"

Sophie rushed back to her room, her heart pounding with excitement. As she drifted off to sleep, she heard a jolly "Ho, ho, ho!" and knew Santa had arrived.

The next morning, Sophie found a special note under the tree: "Thank you for your help, Sophie! You're now an honorary elf! Merry Christmas! - Santa and Jingle"

Sophie smiled, knowing she had been part of a magical Christmas secret. From that day on, Christmas became even more special for her.

12. The Magic Snow Globe

Emily was a 9-year-old girl who loved Christmas. This year, her grandmother gave her an old snow globe as an early present. It looked ordinary, with a tiny village inside, but Grandma said it was special.

On Christmas Eve, Emily shook the snow globe before going to bed. As snowflakes swirled inside, she made a wish: "I wish I could visit Santa's workshop!"

That night, Emily woke up to a strange twinkling sound. She opened her eyes and gasped. Her room had transformed into a magical workshop filled with elves busy making toys!

A jolly voice boomed, "Ho, ho, ho! Welcome to my workshop, Emily!"

It was Santa himself! He showed Emily around, and she even helped the elves paint some toy cars.

As dawn approached, Santa said, "It's time for you to go home, Emily. Thank you for your help!"

Emily blinked, and suddenly she was back in her bed. Was it all a dream? Then she noticed a small paint smudge on her hand and smiled. It wasn't a dream after all!

Under the Christmas tree, Emily found a new toy car with a note: "Thanks for your help! Merry Christmas! - Santa"

From that day on, Emily knew that Christmas magic was real, and it all started with a special snow globe.

13. The Christmas Wish Tree

In a small town covered in snow, there was a big pine tree in the town square. Every year, people would hang their Christmas wishes on its branches. This tree was called the Wish Tree.

Lily, a 8-year-old girl with bright eyes and a kind heart, loved the Wish Tree. On the first day of December, she wrote her wish on a shiny red ornament: "I wish for everyone to have a happy Christmas."

As Christmas got closer, Lily noticed that some people in town looked sad. Old Mr. Johnson was alone, the Baker family couldn't afford presents, and little Tommy was sick in bed.

Lily had an idea. She gathered her friends and they made cards for Mr. Johnson, baked cookies for the Bakers, and drew pictures for Tommy. They spent days spreading cheer all over town.

On Christmas Eve, something magical happened. The Wish Tree began to glow with a warm, golden light. As people gathered around, they felt happy and full of love.

Lily realized her wish had come true. By helping others, she had made everyone's Christmas happy. The mayor announced that Lily's kindness had brought the town together, making it the best Christmas ever.

From that day on, people remembered that the true magic of Christmas comes from sharing love and kindness with others.

14. The Reindeer's Christmas Adventure

It was Christmas Eve, and Dasher the reindeer was very excited. This was his first year pulling Santa's sleigh! He couldn't wait to help deliver presents to all the children around the world.

As night fell, Santa loaded up his big red sleigh with gifts. "Are you ready, Dasher?" Santa asked with a twinkle in his eye. Dasher nodded eagerly, his antlers bouncing up and down.

They took off into the starry sky, flying over snowy mountains and twinkling cities. Everything was going well until they reached a town covered in thick fog.

"Oh no!" Santa exclaimed. "I can't see where to land the sleigh!"

Dasher had an idea. He remembered the special jingle bells on his harness that his mother had given him. He shook his head hard, making the bells ring out clearly through the fog.

To everyone's surprise, the sound of the bells seemed to cut through the mist. It was like magic! Santa could now see exactly where to land the sleigh.

Thanks to Dasher's quick thinking, they were able to deliver presents to every child in the foggy town. Santa was so impressed that he gave Dasher an extra special carrot treat when they got back to the North Pole.

Dasher went to sleep that night feeling very proud. He had learned that sometimes, the littlest things (like tiny jingle bells) can solve the biggest problems. And he couldn't wait for next Christmas to have another amazing adventure!

15. The Christmas Cookie Mix-Up

Zoe was a 9-year-old girl who loved to bake. Every Christmas, she and her mom made special cookies for Santa. This year, Zoe wanted to do it all by herself.

On Christmas Eve, Zoe gathered all the ingredients. She mixed flour, sugar, and butter in a big bowl. But when she reached for the vanilla extract, she accidentally grabbed the bottle of lemon juice instead!

Zoe didn't notice her mistake and happily put the cookies in the oven. Soon, a strange smell filled the kitchen. When she took out the cookies, they looked funny and smelled sour!

"Oh no!" Zoe cried. "Santa won't like these!"

Just then, her little brother Tommy came in. He tasted a cookie and his face lit up. "Wow, Zoe! These lemon cookies are yummy!"

Zoe tried one too. To her surprise, the cookies were delicious! They were different, but in a good way.

That night, Zoe left the lemon cookies for Santa with a note explaining her mix-up. In the morning, she found crumbs on the plate and a note that said: "Dear Zoe, Your lemon cookies were the best surprise of the night! Sometimes mistakes turn into wonderful new things. Merry Christmas! - Santa"

Zoe smiled, realizing that Christmas magic can happen even when things don't go as planned. From that day on, Lemon Surprise became her family's new favorite Christmas cookie!